

Oxford Keynote

Contributed by Matt
Monday, 30 March 2009
Last Updated Saturday, 03 October 2009

I was privileged to attend the joint conference at Oxford put together by Harvard's Berkman Center and the Oxford Internet Institute . I was even invited to give the keynote address kicking off the event. You can find video of that presentation here:

{youtube}p9kV8QLpYC8{/youtube}

I've rarely felt more jetlagged than I did the day I presented, but I remain excited about the dynamic models of Web traffic I present here, which come out of my work with Bruce Rogers.